Showing that a matrix has a given eigenvalue Let

\textbf{A} be the matrix

$\textbf{A} =$

$\begin{pmatrix} 2 & 1 & 1 \\ -1 & 2 & 1 \\ 0 & 0 & 2 \end{pmatrix}$

Show that

\textbf{A} has the eigenvalue $\lambda = -1$.

I know that the determinant must be equal to the product of the eigenvalues, but it is not the same for this matrix. How could I solve this? A: $\left| \begin{matrix} 2 & 1 & 1 \\ -1 & 2 & 1 \\ 0 & 0 & 2 \end{matrix} \right| = -16$. Therefore the eigenvalues are $\pm \sqrt{2}$.

Well-designed screensaver of the Aurora Borealis, which will add beauty to your computer desktop. Yet another screensaver that shows us what we have missed by looking at the globe through the Earth's atmosphere. From a scientific point of view it is interesting to see how the atmosphere of our planet transforms the rays of light that are reaching us. The screen saver that gives images of the Northern Lights has one very neat feature. You can change the time of day, so that instead of showing the Northern Lights during the hours of night, you can watch them during the day. So if you want to set up a screensaver for computer day-time viewing, then you will have to use the time you need for a time-course for the different levels of light from the auroral streams. You can get an idea of the changing level of light because the screen saver is divided into four parts. First, the setting of the light, or background (green), next the streams of light in the sky (purple) - these are the most powerful, and the most beautiful - and in the last four settings you will see the clouds and the farthest space visible through the atmosphere. For a true Northern Lights enthusiasts, this screensaver is very interesting and original. AureoleScreensaver is yet another
